

Just when something good comes along like satellite radio, some lawyer has to mess with it. Those of us who utilize and enjoy satellite radio mostly do so in our vehicles--as such, what could be more natural than being able to hear about traffic and construction along the way. To object to this is a dumb issue and the NAB deserves the whiner of the week award. They should spend their time providing cleaner radio and better programming. Thanks for listening.